HUGHES, ANGRY, FLAILS OLNEY FOR CRITICISM

Defends Action in Quitting the Bench—Bitterly Assails Labor Law Moves of Wilson.

trust to that of the present administration, springs to its defense in its hour of trial.

"With his ability I assume that he has done the best that can be done. He says, referring to the recent railroad situation, that I object 'not to the averted strike' but 'to the mode of its accomplishment—to wit: by the threat of a strike within a time too short for due consideration of necessary legislation.'"

"I am not prepared to admit the necessity of wage increases by law. But I do object in every fiber of my being to legislation under duress. I object to the surrender of the judiciary to force. That is the path of disaster. If the distinguished former secretary of state desires to take the nation along that path
I will not accompany him."

Then came a third demonstration that shook the hall.

Opposed to Filibuster.

Mr. Hughes rapidly analyzed and dismissed Mr. Olney's defenses and excuses. "He asks why I did not urge twenty-eight Republican senators to filibuster to the last ditch. Well, I do not believe in filibustering for one thing. If congress, thru its majority, determined to pass the bill there was no reason whatever why its motion should merely be delayed by filibustering."

"Arguments along this line really come to this, that in some way the administration should have been saved from itself.
The truth is the executive destroyed the moral strength of the situation when he threw up his hands, yielded the principle of arbitration, and went to congress demanding the railway wage bill as the price of peace."

"Congress, so far as the morals of the situation was concerned, ratified a surrender already made. The administration chose its ground. It selected its ground carefully and with a manifest view to partisan expediency. In the closing days it acted with swiftness and it cannot now cry that a Republican candidate a thousand miles away should have saved it from carrying out its fixed determination."

Hearing Plan Opposed.

After hammering home his points,
one by one, he asked "if the administration had desired to know the facts it had abundant opportunity at the solicitation of the business of the United States."

Documents read by Mr. Hughes included an extract from a letter written on July 29 last by Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the committee on railroad affairs of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to the president, in which Mr. Wheeler expressed the hope that the president would "see fit to start an inquiry on behalf of the administration as to the near approach of an actual crisis," and in the following reply attributed to Senator Newlands on Aug. 4.

"It was determined to have no hearing upon the subject, but to lay the resolution (senate joint resolution 140, providing for an investigation by the in-

NUTSHELL POLITICS

Jottings on National, State, Local Candidates and Events

County Judge Scully and the board of election commissioners yesterday settled the questions raised by orthodox Jews with respect to the first day of registration, Oct. 7, by ruling that judges or clerks of election of the Jewish faith need not serve on that day, nor need premises owned by persons of the Jewish faith be used for election purposes on that day without prejudice to either the polls officials or the places in the future. Oct. 7 is the Jewish day of stone-masonry. The clerk of the board was instructed to make arrangements for temporary judges and clerks and polling places.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall spent a few hours in bed at Hotel La Salle yesterday suffering with a severe cold. He was on his way to Hammond, Ind., from Evansville, Ind., on a campaign speechmaking tour. His wife is with him and she took advantage of her husband's rest to do some shopping at State street.

United States Senator James W.
Wadsworth Jr. of New York will speak at Hammond, Ind., on the night of Oct.
2. The western headquarters speakers bureau is arranging his schedule so he may address the Hamilton club at noon
Oct. 3.

Ludlow P. Pettit, Republican state chairman of Kentucky, assured Western Manager A. T. Hart at Republican headquarters that Hughes and Fairbanks from Kentucky, State Chairman Evan Evans of Idaho brought in fair weather reports as to Republican conditions in his state.

terstate commerce commission) on the table. The committee deemed it inadvisable while proceedings were pending under the mediation and conciliation act to take up the subject of pay and hours of service of the railway employees. It was also deemed inadvisable to add to the present duties of the interstate commerce commission, which, as it is well known, is overloaded with work."

Telegram Urges Action.

Then followed a telegram dated Aug.
4 from Mr. Wheeler to Senator Newlands in which he said the senate action in tabling the resolution was a disappointment and called attention to the fact that 3,000 business firms and corporations who were vitally interested had asked the hearing. He urged that a hearing be arranged if the New York conference the following Tuesday failed of results.

Apparently there was no reply to this telegram and on Aug. 6 Mr. Wheeler addressed a letter to Senator Newlands as a result of the report that a special senate committee might be appointed to hear the differences.

Mr. Wheeler urged that the interstate commerce commission be the only body fitted to make inquiry into the railroad situation and held that a special committee might be more or less stung with politics.

Then on Aug. 12 Mr. Wheeler wired President Wilson direct, urging a thorough investigation of the demands by the rail carriers, holding that "if the demands of the men are just they will not suffer from a proper inquiry, nor will they be irreparably injured by continuing upon the present basis while inquiry is being made."

"Facts have not entered into this controversy as they should upon the merits of the proposals of either side," Mr. Wheeler continued. "The public has been compelled to form its opinions upon unsupported or admittedly partisan statements, wholly contradictory."

Stick to Direct Primary.

Generous support for every stand paign and hearty endorsement of Gov.

of the Hughes National College league.

colleges of the country.

Miss Harriet Vittum, director of the Republican women's bureau, will speak before the Third ward branch of the Woman's City club at the Forrester school tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow night she will address a mass meeting of the Woman's party of Cook county at the Masonic temple.

The Democratic national headquarters now headlines William J. Bryan and issues a bulletin that says Bryan is breaking all records in his speechmaking tour of the western states. The headquarters also issued a bulletin carrying the information that Senator James Hamilton Lewis had big crowds on his trailing trip through the northwest.

William G. Anderson filed his threatened mandamus suit against the election commissioners, Secretary of State Stevenson and County Clerk Switzer.
He wants Maj. Robert R. Jackson thrown out as a Republican nominee for the house in the Third senatorial district because the major is on duty with his regiment at the border.

Figures on Lake county's Republican vote for congressmen were given yesterday by Representative George E. Foss.
He received 5,244, Johnson 3,006, and Hubert 388. These added to the Chicago vote give Foss 20,654, Johnson 3,006, and Hubert 1,440, making Foss plurality 17-648, the largest he has ever received.

Whitman's administration were contained in the platform adopted tonight by the Republican state conference.

An eleventh hour change in the plans of the leaders eliminated from the platform as adopted the tentative plank intended to place the party on record as favoring a return to the system of non-electing state officers by convention. The elimination was accomplished only after the platform committee had sat for hours in executive session discussing it.

Though the general sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of a reversion to the convention system, the belief finally prevailed that it was inadvisable to recommend the change at this time.
Leaders feared Progressives would regard such a change as reactionary.

DUNNE TO MAKE 'AUCTION BLOCK' PLANK BIG ISSUE

Governor Plans to Assail Rival as Candidate of the Moneyed Interests.

Gov. Dunne has picked the paramount issue upon which he will make his campaign for reelection. It is the plank in the Democratic state platform adopted Tuesday that accuses the Republican party of having put up its gubernatorial nomination on the auction block.

The governor announced the general plan of his campaign in the following statement:

"Republicans by the result of the primary election have furnished a clean out issue. 'Can money buy the government of Illinois?'"

"The corporations directly concerned with interests of the public were in a solid battle line to secure the nomination of their candidate. They won and now they are behind him just as strong to secure his election."

"The people must decide whether they will have a public utilities commissioner in sympathy with the corporate interests of this state or one that will be for the interests of the people."

"Democrats have a right to be proud of the record of the state's administration. Every department has been managed with efficiency. On its record the administration is entitled to the confidence of the people and should be retained."

SHE WILL OPPOSE WILSON.

Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain
to Stump Suffrage States

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—National headquarters of the Woman's party announced tonight that Mrs. Inez Mil-holland Boissevain, the suffragist leader, would leave Chicago Oct. 3 for a month's speaking tour through the twelve suffrage states in opposition to the reelection of President Wilson.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe.

EMMY DESTINN IS DETAINED IN AUSTRIA: APPEALS TO U. S.

Opera Star May Not Be Able to Sing in America This Season—Lacks Passport.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Emmy Destinn will not return this season to sing again the roles in which she has endeared herself as a member of the Metropolitan company. It was learned today on good authority that she is being detained by the Austro-Hungarian military authorities.

She was at Casale Piana, her recently acquired country place at Nonthaus, Bohemia, near Prague, the last time there was any direct communication from her. She went to Prague at the close of last season to be with Elmhurst, the Algerian opera singer, to whom she is reported to be engaged to be married. He is interned for the period of the war in Austria because he is a French subject.

The most recent communication from her came indirectly through the American embassy at Vienna, to which she applied for assistance in leaving the country, and the state department at Washington. She was unable to obtain a passport because she is not yet an American citizen, although she has taken out her first papers in this country.

Artistic and Timely

The pictures in the rotogravure section of next Sunday's Tribune have these prime virtues. They were chosen with an eye to the most important of current events and with an eye to beauty of subject and photography. Printed with the superb reproduction of The Tribune's rotogravure process, the section has the merit of enduring value.
You should save it.

There are three pages in the section of pretty girls—the film stars of the future—girls who are doing things, who are commanding attention. A page is given over to three remarkable athletic pictures, one of them among the finest photographs of hurdling ever taken; it shows trim athletes with taut muscles at the moment of leaping the high hurdles in a championship race. "A Nestling of the Sea" is the title of another picture of rare beauty; it is of a battleship and a torpedo boat destroyer far a-sea on a moonlit night. A photographic group of the principal figures in the Anglo-French side of the war—men who at this moment are making history—will be something you will be glad to

These are only some of the features in the

PEACE VS. WAR CAMPAIGN ISSUE, WILSON WRITES

Letter to Oregon Woman Cities
"Radical Change of Policy"
If He Is Beaten.

Many Branch, N. J., Sept. 28.—In a message opening his campaign of letter writing, President Wilson declared tonight that "the question is about to be decided whether we shall keep the nation upon its present terms of peace and good will with the world or turn to radical changes of policy which may alter the whole aspect of the nation's life."

The president wrote the letter to Miss Emma L. Larabee, president of the Women's Democratic club of Portland, Ore., thanking her for work being done in his behalf by the organization.

"I cannot help having the feeling," said the president's letter, "that the intelligent women of Oregon need no suggestion or intimation from me as to what are the real issues of the present campaign or the real concerns that women have with these issues."

"As a very sincere advocate of the extension of the suffrage to women, it seems to me a very great disservice to the cause that partisan use should be made of it, particularly at a time so critical as this," he wrote.

Exhorta Business Men.

In another letter, sent to Howard S. Williams of Jackson, Mississippi, expressing regret that he cannot attend the annual convention of the Young Men's Business Clubs of America at Jackson on Oct. 10, the president declared that the future business development of the country rests in an unusual and peculiar degree at present in the hands of young business men.

"The problems of the future in the field of business are going to be new problems very largely," he wrote, "or else old problems in a new form. It will need imagination, vigor, and enterprise to deal with them as they should be dealt with, and the young men of this generation should be preparing themselves in mind and purpose for a new era."

Plans No Campaign Tour.

The president made it clear again tonight that he has no intention of making a campaign tour. It was reiterated that all speeches made by him away from Shadow Lawn will be before non-partisan organizations, and, generally speaking, will be nonpolitical in form.

In replying to an invitation to make an extra speech on one of his middle western trips, Secretary Tumulty wrote tonight that no plans were being made for extra platform speeches by the president. On these trips the president's private car will be attached to regular trains, and only the regular brief stops will be made.

A suggestion has been made here that a Wilson day be celebrated before election in all parts of the country, the president to write a message for the occasion. The plans are only in tentative shape, however.

Wilson Broadside Saturday.

Scores of telegrams poured into the White House today from today congratulating President Wilson upon his determination to answer his Republican critics and deliver a broadside against Republican Candidate Hughes and other Republican fault finders in his speech before the Young Men's League of Democratic Clubs at Shadow Lawn on Saturday.

SWEDISH BAPTIST PASTOR STILL TO BE LOCATED.

Church Officials Meet to Prepare Statement of Confidence in the Rev. Mr. Hamlin.

No word has been received from the Rev. P. C. Hamlin, pastor of the Second Swedish Baptist church, Fifth avenue and Thirtieth street, who disappeared last Monday after borrowing $25 from Miss Ruth Nelson, a stenographer and a friend of the family.

A meeting of the officials of the church was called last evening for the purpose of issuing a statement expressing confidence in the character of their pastor and the belief that he was suffering from breakdown from overwork. The church officials decided at a late hour not to issue the statement until today or tomorrow. One of the number said he expressed the belief of all the others that the only trouble the pastor referred to when he went to Miss Nelson to borrow money was temporary trouble over paying the bill in question.

SOME of our wonderful pearl necklaces are worth the proverbial "Queen's ransom." Yet we have at from $100 to $300 truly charming strings of pearls—maximum values which, under present market conditions, we believe cannot be duplicated elsewhere, either in this country or abroad.

BRUNDAGE LEAD OVER BARR 2,905

Chicagoan's Gain of 2,957
Votes in Cook by Official Count Gives Victory.

Edward J. Brundage wins the Republican nomination for attorney general with a plurality of 2,905 over Richard J. Barr. This may be decreased by eleven votes, if the state canvassing board accepts an amended certificate of the vote in Ogle county, in which event Brundage's final all state and official plurality will be 2,894.

The official canvass of Chicago, Cicero, and the country towns of Cook county was completed yesterday. These are final figures, with Ogle county uncorrected.

	Brundage	Barr
Cook county	71,487	20,223
Country towns	101	101
Totals	71,588	20,324

Brundage made a net gain in Cook county on the official canvass over Barr of 2,957 votes. The official count in Chicago, Cicero, and the country towns follows:

	Brundage	Barr
Chicago	61,362	16,978
Cicero town	5,244	2,981
Cicero	881	207
Totals	71,487	20,223

Senator Barr's friends are anxious to see certain ballots, in precincts where more votes were counted for attorney general than there were votes recorded, and court proceedings may be started, it is said, when the official proclamation is made.

Official Count Completed.

The official count was completed during the day for all Republican and Democratic candidates for Cook county. The pluralities for candidates on the state tickets for Cook county entire follow:

Republicans—Governor, Lowden, 20,488 over Hull; Lieutenant governor, Oglesby, 11,556 over Goodman; secretary of state, Emerson, 16,894 over Jayne; auditor, Tice, 14,535 over Russell; treasurer, Small, 34,567 over Keys; attorney general, Brundage, 51,284 over Barr.

McCormick Gains 5,837. For congressman-at-large, Republican, Medill McCormick gained 5,837 votes, and his net plurality in the entire state over Mason is 57,908 and over Chipfield is 72,085. Chipfield gained nearly 10,000 votes, but is defeated for the nomination in the entire state by Mason by 14,077 votes.

The principle of a $5,000 suit against the Hotel La Salle was filed yesterday by Phillip P. Roush, formerly superintendent of the checking department. The suit, according to Attorney James J. Callahan, is for Roush's part of the $2,300 tips he has collected since July, 1915.

CHINESE MINISTER TO U. S. QUITS; BAD HEALTH CAUSE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—[Special.]—Vi Kyrin Wellington Koo, Chinese minister to the United States, it was learned today, has sent in his resignation to his home government. Poor health is assigned as the cause. The Peking government has not, as yet acted upon the resignation, it was said at the Chinese legation today. Dr. Koo is only 30 years old—the youngest diplomat ever accredited to the United States. He is a graduate of Columbia university and was appointed minister to this country Dec. 16, 1915.

The reputation which it has always been the distinction of Martha Washington Candies to enjoy, is no greater than the superior quality which it has always been the reputation of Martha Washington Candies to contain.

Martha Washington Candies HAVE achieved greatness—but it is the inevitable reward for the years which have been spent pioneering in new fields and developing new ideas in the making of home-made candy.

Its makers have pressed forward along untrodden ways which were destined to become well beaten paths, once the pioneer had blazed the trail.

They have advanced new ideas which were destined to serve as an inspiration to the uninspired.

They have adopted policies which differed so radically from customary ethics that the old-timers shook their heads in dismay.

And with each successive year of successful candy making—with each announcement of further perfection in an art already far in the lead—they have established higher standards which are destined to add new impetus to the efforts of those who aspire to a share of their prestige.

UNIONS REJECT GENERAL STRIKE OVER NEW YORK

Second Day of Proposed Sympathy Tieup Brings Defeat to the Radicals.

New York, Sept. 28.—[Special.]—The second day of the general sympathy strike ended as the first has ended—with out a strike.

The police department tonight announced that since Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, the hour for the general suspension of work in all trades and industries, no organized labor body had stopped work, as far as the department had been able to discover.

A careful canvass of the unions disclosed that a few machinists had gone out, believing there was a general strike.

Radical Leaders Repudiated. Today was a day of the keenest disappointment to the radical leaders, who had made glowing predictions that hundreds of thousands would stop work. Blow after blow followed as the labor bodies met and refused to strike. The general strike promoters—Hugh Frayne and Ernest Bohm, with Timothy Healy—were forced to realize late in the afternoon that organized labor had repudiated their leadership with unexpected unanimity.

Then they abandoned the strike plan for this week, hoping it may get life at a general convention of the Central Federation union of New York, which will be held Monday morning. But it was learned on reliable authority that at the meeting a resolution formally calling off the "general suspension" plan will be put through by Central Federation union leaders.

Six Unions Reject Strike. A telegram sent from Indianapolis by President M. G. Scott of the International Typographical union was made public today. It gave positive orders to officers of "Big Six" not to obey the call for the general strike, as contracts with employers "must be observed to the letter." This was the first blow.

The second blow was delivered by the United Building Trades council, which met to decide what action its unions should take. The council represents about 115,000 union men. Many outside unions had announced they would follow the lead of the building trades. A resolution was adopted leaving strike action to individual locals and setting the next meeting for next Wednesday.

Then the teamsters held a session and decided not to strike. General Organizer Sullivan of the brewery drivers refused to exercise the strike power his men had given him. The machinists also rejected the sympathetic strike plan. As the news spread lesser unions followed in repudiation. The defeat became a rout.

Charles Evans Hughes was assailed as a "Hold off American" and a "dealer in glittering, but meaningless generalities" by Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, manager of western Democratic headquarters, as a dinner given by the Iroquois club at Hotel La Salle last night.

Senator Walsh's defense of the "eight hour law" passed by congress to avert the threatened railroad strike brought prolonged applause from the 500 Democrats at the dinner.

"Mr. Hughes is laying great stress on the so-called compulsory action of President Wilson in the adoption of the eight hour law," Senator Walsh said.

Recites Hughes' Power. "It might be interesting to consider that if its passage was such a great wrong, why didn't Mr. Hughes, with just one word to the Republican members of congress, prevent its adoption?"

"It would have been easy for the Republicans to have started a filibuster and held off until the railroad men went on a strike. But Mr. Hughes remained silent."

"If a wrong has been done, then Mr. Hughes, who professes to have known it was wrong, is responsible for it by not raising his voice before the thing was accomplished."

"What Would Hughes Do?" "Mr. Hughes criticizes the president's war policy and his handling of the Mexican situation. But has Mr. Hughes stated what he would do? He also has made statements that most of the legislation enacted by the present Democratic administration should be repealed. If such would be the case what would the farmer do about the farm loan law and the banker about the federal reserve act?"

Hare or Tortoise?

Speculation is the Hare. Investment is the tortoise. The Hare was the faster, but you may remember that it was the reliable old Tortoise that won the race.

In the long run, investment in sound securities profits more than speculation. Safety with a reasonable interest yield represents the requirements of the vast majority of investors.

For safety and income, we recommend First Mortgage Serial Real Estate Bonds, issued and safeguarded under the Trust Plan. We have just purchased a highly attractive new issue, secured by high grade, income earning Chicago property. We are offering these bonds with our recommendation to net 5 1/2 %.

ALL INFORMATION, COMMUNICATIONS, ADVERTISEMENTS, AND CIRCULARS TO BE SENT TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE COMPANY, 435 N. DEARBORN ST., CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong!"
—Stephen Decatur.

ADDRESSED TO MR. MILLER OF BURGHILL AND OTHERS.

Burghill, O. Sept. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have received information through a member of congress, which seems to me convincing, that you and the interests you represent are owners of some 100 square miles of land in Mexico. As I have received information through a member of congress, which seems to me convincing, that you and the interests you represent are owners of some 100 square miles of land in Mexico. As I have received information through a member of congress, which seems to me convincing, that you and the interests you represent are owners of some 100 square miles of land in Mexico.

The foregoing communication is a specimen of the lies that are now to take the place of argument and substitute fuddled sentiment or prejudice for common sense in the discussion of our Mexican problem.

Mr. Miller may be assured that neither the publishers of THE TRIBUNE, nor any of its stockholders, nor any interest that any of them represents, owns a square mile or a square inch of land in Mexico, or has any interest in that country other than an interest in having it restored to peace, order, progress, and national responsibility.

It is regretted that Mr. Miller has not named the member of congress who has supplied him with the information he thinks convincing. THE TRIBUNE would be glad to know who is the father of the lie which Mr. Miller has swallowed. But we think we can gauge him without Mr. Miller's help. He is probably one of the gentlemen who, while filling their mouths with pious platitudes and Periclean moralities, are beneath ascribing evil motives without knowledge to those who oppose their political ideas, or beneath using slander in public discussion for the infusing of stupid prejudice and the misleading of public deliberation.

Mr. Miller wishes the public to know the basis of our enthusiasm for the sentiment, "My Country, Right or Wrong," which stands at the head of our editorial column.

We beg to inform Mr. Miller that it is the same basis as that which supported Stephen Decatur when he gave his toast, a plain man's love of his country, his country first, last, and all the time.

Mr. Miller, it seems, has no enthusiasm for Decatur or his sentiment. There are other Millers, which is the misfortune of the republic. But happily they are in a minority, and the American people will be honoring the memory of Decatur long after the Millers have forgotten or obscured his name.

This republic was made by men who fought and won the wilderness and the wild man of the wilderness. They made war not only when it was necessary, but when they believed American principles were involved. They carried the Stars and Stripes on every sea, and wherever it flew it was respected. They were not harried and outraged and covered with insult in foreign lands while a generation of Millers at home envied sentimentalists about peace and traded their souls to quiet their own consciences.

The gentleman from Burghill wishes to know the basis of our enthusiasm for Decatur's toast. Let him change his mind of cowardly slander and consult the history of his country, for it is there he will find the basis of our enthusiasm and the source of every true American's inspiration.

At this time twenty-one employees of THE TRIBUNE, not counting its two publishers, are serving their country under the flag Decatur fought for. They are in the citizen army called at the eleventh hour to defend this country from invasion and outrage feared from the Mexican marauders whom Mr. Miller and his kind, safely at home, though valiant and courageous on the stump, are defending. They are on full pay from THE TRIBUNE because the administration will not support the families of the men that defend the nation, and their jobs will be held for them while they serve. We guarantee them to Mr. Miller of Burghill for men, for red blooded Americans who love their country better than the sound of their own voices and who will fight if need be not for any man's interest in Mexico but for the honor of the flag Decatur loved—which some day, when the Millers and their candidate have had their brief day, will again protect the American wherever he is and be honored as once it was wherever it flies on this round world.

NEUTRALS MUST SUFFER.

M. Yves Guyot, who is acknowledged by nearly all who know to be one of the greatest living economists, does not share the feeling of the entire diplomatic corps who have partitioned out the economic world into strata of various degrees of friendliness, or the opposite, in anticipation of the trade punishment to be meted out to the central powers after the war. "I know," he says, "that there is talk in France of three tariffs: a war tariff against Germany and Austria-Hungary, a privileged tariff between the allies, and a third tariff for neutrals. I consider this proposition and every other proposition of the sort absurd. If we treat neutrals, and especially the United States, in a manner different from that in which we treat our allies, we shall run the very grave risk of throwing their commercial interests and cooperation into the hands of Germany. Certainly the conventions which the allies may create among themselves should be extended to neutrals and particularly to the United States."

Unfortunately M. Guyot was not consulted at the recent Paris conference of the allies, nor were similarly wise men in England asked for their opinion. The black list of England has been approved by France and the men in power in both countries seem animated only by a blind hate against their common enemy. This feeling has robbed them of all sense of proportion and justice and they have extended it to every neutral nation.

M. Guyot believes that the general sentiment among his countrymen towards America is one of sympathy. But in neither country does popular sentiment count for much in the face of the determination of the men who are shaping the economic future of those nations. While England is content to let the French conduct the war on the continent she has the upper hand in economic matters, not only because of her navy but because of her financial supremacy. It is English commercial interest, through Lombard street, which is dictating the terms of the coming tariff war.

JUSTICE TO CHICAGO.

The Michigan avenue improvement or boulevard link is the most urgently needed improvement in the city of Chicago today. The conditions north from Randolph street to Chicago avenue are intolerable and they are growing worse. To abate this public nuisance, an injury and discredit to the city, a well considered plan was made and is now in process of realization through the long agony of the courts.

But this process is being retarded by property owners who have attacked the legality of the improvement and are insisting upon separate consideration of their objections, although these objections repeat over and over again the same technical points.

When these cases are all fought to a finish, after months and even years of delay, will come the contests over awards of damages.

Meantime Chicago must continue to bear the burden of ugliness and acute congestion on the city front, in the most conspicuous section of the city, along its finest thoroughfare.

No property holder should be compelled to take an inadequate price for his property and no property holder will be obliged to. But it is fair to ask that a great public improvement, actually needed by the city, shall not be objected to and postponed for years. It is the part of good citizenship to assist the progress of such an improvement and not retard it, unless relinquishment of objection would entail a serious financial loss, which it would not in any of these cases.

The attorneys involved are also not without public responsibility in this situation. The defense of the substantial rights of their clients is their paramount duty, but it is not their duty to devise and interpose tactics which merely retard the prompt adjudication of their clients' rights. On the contrary, it is their duty to accelerate proceedings, and they are not justified in complicating them even though that may increase their own profits.

What reason in proper procedure or in common justice is there for refusing to combine all objections in one appeal which may be expeditiously dealt with by the Supreme court? We believe that the community has the right to demand of objecting property owners and their lawyers, not willful obstruction, but fair cooperation for the realization of a public improvement of the first rank.

TAVENNER AND HIS THREE P'S.

One of the men who voted against the conference naval appropriation bill is Clyde H. Tavenner of the Fourteenth congressional district.

For that, if for no other reason, the intelligent voters of the Fourteenth district should turn to and defend Tavenner. They wish their country to be protected from aggression and to hold its place among the great powers as it certainly would not, if little men like Tavenner were numerous enough to defeat measures of national defense.

The Rock Island district does itself an injustice and the country a poor service by sending a man of Tavenner's small caliber to represent, or rather as we hope in the case, to misrepresent it in the national legislature.

Tavenner's hopes of reelection depend upon the success of a sort of political sleight of hand. He tries to keep three balls in the air, preparedness, pacifism, and pork.

He began as a supporter of "adequate defense." He told THE TRIBUNE he was not opposed to increases in the army and navy. But he wanted the government to manufacture all munitions.

Although he thereafter fought all defense measures, he sought more preparedness pork than any other member of congress. His several bills for expenditures at Rock Island ran into millions, for his bill to establish the eleven million dollar armor plate factory there.

But in spite of his appetite for pork, Rock Island owes nothing to Tavenner for the appropriation finally included in the sundry civil bill. On the contrary, Tavenner's bills were ignored. It was Gen. Crozier who secured the appropriation solely on the legitimate ground that the government had no munition plants away from the seaboard where they could not be attacked easily. Tavenner's influence was not a help but a hindrance for a very obvious reason.

Because the third ball Tavenner keeps in the air for the fascination of his constituency is pacifism. During the last session his office in Washington was turned over to the Ford pacifist propaganda. From that office issued hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of copies of Tavenner's speeches against preparedness, attacking the Navy League and charging the armor trust, etc., with fomenting the demand for better defense. The large printing bills thus run up were paid by Ford, but the government had to stand the expense of distribution through the abuse of the franking privilege.

So when Tavenner showed up to ask for pork for his district no one in congress who believed in defense was willing to listen to him.

Rock Island got the appropriation because it was good public policy to develop a munitions plant inland. She got it in spite of Tavenner, not because of him, and she owes him nothing unless it is the discredit of being represented by a politician of the smallest caliber.

Against Tavenner the candidate is William J. Graham of Alton, who has served his district creditably in the Illinois house of representatives, and we believe will do credit to the Fourteenth district instead of discredit, as Tavenner has done.

Editorial of the Day

LOVE OF COUNTRY.

[From the South Whittier, Ind., Editorial.]
Col. George B. Lockwood gives it as his opinion that "Mr. Fairbanks uttered a great and pertinent truth when he declared that our danger is not so much from the man who loves two countries as the man who loves none. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the man who has a lingering affection for the fatherland—no matter where his fatherland may be—is a true nationalist and a true patriot. It is the man who believes that his own passions and his own desires are superior to those of the state, who would destroy nationalism just as he would destroy the family, who is the real menace to the nation. Here, and not with the one who would chop hands across the sea, we find the man who is to be watched as a possible viper in the bosom of America."

AUTUMN LEAVES.

Maud Muller's father, bent and gray,
Haxed the Autumn leaves away.
Maud said she'd help, but she's a shirk;
She loves to sit and watch folks work.
Cussing, he told till the work was done,
And off he wished Maud was a son.

He watched his change till the opast was clear,
Then sneaked away for a glass of beer.
"Without a doubt," he said, "this draught
Is the rankest brew I ever quaffed."

Then back to his rake and leaves he went,
Kicking himself for the jitters spent.
He raked and raked, then raked some more;
His hands were blistered, his back was sore.

Now and again he gazed about,
To see if Maud was coming out.
But nary a sign of Maud was seen,
Till up drove pa's new gas machine.

Then from the house she traipsed with ma,
Now hark to what Maud said to pa:
"Give me that rake till I show you how To rake up leaves; just watch me now."

You mustn't hold the rake that way;
You're raking leaves, you must, not hay.
Large blades of sweat are on your brow,
You'd think you drove a three-horse plough.

You put like a horse that's got the heaves,
And all you've done is to rake up leaves.
You make me tired the way you rake;
Don't look like that, for heaven's sake!

Just take it easy, watch my style;
Don't try to make too big a pile.
Here, take your rake, and never say
That you can beat me raking hay."

Maud and her ma waved pa adieu,
And as pa leaned upon his rake,
Quoth he, "You women take the cake."
The Judge rode up on Shank's gray mare,
Wearing a sad, dejected air.

His term of judge expires this fall,
He ran again, but that was all.
And now the gossips of the town
Say Maud has turn'd his honor down.

These facts are worth while knowing.
It is well that the consumer should be able to sit at home and through this test keep watch of the dairyman.

She must get her dairymaid when she learns that the test has limitations. In the large cities it is misleading, because the large dealers in such cities remove the gross dirt from the milk before they market it. The thousands of housewives who buy their milk in villages, towns, and smaller cities will find that their milk dealers do not remove the gross dirt from before marketing it.

Nor must they be disappointed when they find that they cannot get rid of the number of bacteria in the amount of sediment found on the cotton. Mr. Campbell of the dairy division of the department of agriculture has just proven that fact. For instance, he found that one milk which the test showed to be fair contained 2,680,000 bacteria to each fifteen drops, whereas milk which the test showed to be bad contained only 150,000 bacteria to each fifteen drops.

A good many observations proved that we could not judge of the bacteria by the amount of gross dirt in the milk. Evidently the test is a good one as to manure and other filth; it is a poor one as to bacteria.

Another disappointing fact was that Mr. Campbell was that filtering out the dirt did not lessen the number of bacteria. In spite of these and other facts the dirt test is a valuable test for milk.

DIRT TEST FOR MILK.

FOR many persons and in many situations the dirt test is the best of all tests for determining the cleanliness or lack of cleanliness of the dairy. For one thing, the test is simple, easy to make, and requires little apparatus. Any woman can make it. A small milk dealer can make it. It consists in straining a small quantity of milk through cheesecloth and absorbent cotton and noting the amount of dirt left on the cotton.

A very good, simple method of making the test is as follows: Take a clean funnel. Place a layer of cheesecloth in the interior of the funnel. On this cheesecloth at the bottom of the funnel lay a layer of clean absorbent cotton. Shake a bottle of milk thoroughly. Filter the milk—one pint. Examine the cotton for sediment.

There are several pieces of apparatus on the market for making this test. They consist of a pump for forcing the milk through the filter under pressure, or means of keeping the filtering milk warm. Such apparatus hastens the process and is, therefore, desirable for persons who must test many samples in a day. The housewife, the restaurant keeper, and the small dealer make the test without any of this machinery.

The test shows the amount of gross dirt in the milk. It tells whether the milkman washed his hands before he milked, whether the cow's udders were cleaned, whether the cow switched any filth from her flanks into the pail, and whether the utensils were clean.

These facts are worth while knowing. It is well that the consumer should be able to sit at home and through this test keep watch of the dairyman.

She must get her dairymaid when she learns that the test has limitations. ### ACID FUMES.

Mrs. E. writes: "My son is superintendent of a chemical plant. Considerable hydrochloric acid and sulphuric acid fumes are used in the manufacture of their products. He also smokes cigars, about 100 a month; eats rationally, retires about 10, and arises at 5:30 a. m. He is 31 years of age, about 5 feet 10 inches in height, and weighs 155 pounds. This is a loss of from ten to twenty pounds the last year. He looks and feels tired on his return from work and has a hacking cough, apparently from the throat.

"What I would like to know is if the fumes, one or both, are poisonous, or responsible for his tired and run down condition and his throat trouble, and if you consider it wise to give up this position, which is a very promising one, as a menace to health? I wished to take him to a doctor, but he pooh-poohs the idea, so I fall back on you, appreciating the privilege."

Both hydrochloric acid fumes and sulphuric acid fumes are irritating to the mucous membranes. Coughs of ill health from these fumes are alluded to in Kober and Bauer's "Diseases of Occupation." You must insist upon the boy having a thorough physical examination. A hacking cough, loss of weight to twenty pounds in weight, and a state of chronic tire may mean tuberculosis. If he is free from tuberculosis and his condition is due to the fumes, he should have them provided against. To leave a bad situation is one way out for him, but the problem is to get out of the situation.

To work out a way to prevent the discharge of these fumes into the air is the better plan, and the fumes are the better plan.

LUMPS ON BREASTS.

Mrs. L. G. B. writes: "A woman, aged 48 years, has had a lump to form each breast, size about half a lemon. First one appeared two years ago, then seemed to disappear. Now both have made appearance, it seems, all at once, to the touch hard and movable. No soreness or inconvenience in any way. General health very good. Wishes to be painted with iodine or exposure to sun's rays benefit? What is your advice on this subject through your helpful column?"

The lump probably is a benign tumor. Painting it with iodine and exposing to the sun's rays will do no good. Either have it removed by operation or leave it entirely alone. Of the two the former is the better policy.

RESULT OF WRONG EATING.

K. R. W. writes: "I am a man 30 years old, weigh 240, am 5 feet 11 inches. I wake up every morning about 2 o'clock with heartburn and it keeps me awake for about an hour. I feel it in the stomach and on my side. The sweat is the cause of this and would cease if I ate less. What is your advice?"

HOYNE TO KEEP UP ATTACKS ON MILLER BACKERS

Spurns Olive Branch Offered by Mayor Thompson in Statement.

State's Attorney Macley Hoyne de- clared an olive branch extended by Mayor Thompson yesterday and an- nounced he will continue to show the political affiliations of Harry B. Miller, his opponent in the race for state at- torney. This was the latest develop- ment in the war which started in the court of black and white witnesses and the Erbstein-O'Donnell- Erwin row which involved the city hall.

In reply to the mayor's olive branch statement this is what Mr. Hoyne said: "Personal friendship has nothing to do with the conduct of a public office, and nothing to do with the issues of a campaign. I do not intend to indulge in any personalities, but the political affiliations of my opponent, the support be- hind him, the nature of it, the fact that he is not qualified for the office, and the manner in which he has conducted the office he now holds are issues, or will be presently."

"Nothing will deter me in the investi- gation which I have begun," he said. "One of Mr. Hoyne's criticisms of the civil service commission was answered yesterday. The list of those who passed the examination for boiler inspectors held last April was posted. None of the tem- porary appointees now on the payroll was the head of the list."

O'Donnell's Nephew in Custody. P. H. O'Donnell's nephew, James Wil- son, was taken into custody in the city hall building.

"I sent my nephew over to get a list of members of the September grand jury and he was arrested and taken into custody," said O'Donnell, "and quitted about the list."

"The reason I wanted the list was that I think I will use the grand jury as witnesses against three members of the state's attorney's office in informa- tion proceedings. Their attempt to get Erwin and Green to give false testi- mony amounts to subornation of per- jury."

Berger Makes Statement. Assistant State's Attorney Henry A. Berger last night issued a statement answering charges that have been made against him by Erbstein and O'Donnell. "It is extremely discouraging to a young lawyer heretofore unassailed, who has honestly endeavored at all times to conduct himself in accordance with the code of ethics laid down by the Illinois and Chicago Bar associations, to be the object of the malignant vindic- tion of a couple of 'rat' lawyers like Erbstein and O'Donnell for the reason that they desire to defeat Macley Hoyne for state's attorney."

"There is not a scintilla of truth to the base and filthy charges Erbstein and O'Donnell make against me. I be- lieve that my conduct as an assistant state's attorney, as a lawyer, and as a man is above reproach."

"If justice is done, Erbstein and O'Donnell will be found guilty of the charges they now stand indicted for, and will serve in the penitentiary for their crimes."

WILL BE PASTOR'S BRIDE

Daughter of Minister Who Will Wed the Rev. J. P. Brushingham, Oct. 12.

Miss Clara Edith Williamson
GROOM, SVCS & FLOWER PHOTO

Miss Clara Edith Williamson will become the bride of the Rev. John Patrick Brushingham, pastor of the South Park Avenue Methodist Epis- copal church, the evening of Oct. 12. The nuptials will be at 6 o'clock at 3314 South Park avenue and will be private, only members of the im- mediate families being present. A re- ception will follow from 8 to 11 o'clock at the church.

Invitations to the reception were sent out yesterday by Mrs. Eliza- beth Williamson, mother of the bride and widow of the late Rev. Dr. John Williamson, former pastor of the South Park avenue, and other lead- ing Methodist churches.

At the station, Ragakwicz refused to talk, so detectives went out to Burnham to see his wife.

"My husband left home about noon on Tuesday, saying he was going to South Chicago to see a doctor," she said. "He came back about midnight."

"Joseph Swintich was a fine, nice fellow. Sure, I liked him. We were going to run away once. That's when my husband caught us and made Joseph go away."

'STAR BOARDER' IS SHOT DEAD; HUSBAND IN CELL

Burnham Man Invites Ousted Rival to Drink on Fatal Night.

Six months ago Joseph Swintich was the "star boarder" in the home of Julian Ragakwicz out in Burnham. One day Ragakwicz, a gang boss and a man of authority in a factory over in Hegewisch, looked with questioning eyes at his pretty 20 year old wife. That night Swintich was told to pack and get out, bag and baggage.

Yesterday a party of school children, searching a patch of prairie in South Chicago, came upon Swintich's body covered with weeds and dirty water in a shallow depression known as the Eighty-seventh street ditch. Near by was a cal- iber revolver with five charged cham- bers. There were three bullet wounds in Swintich's body.

Within an hour Ragakwicz, called from his back yard across the boundary line between the city and Burnham, was ar- rested and locked up at the South Chicago station.

The Invitation to Drink. At the South Chicago boarding house to which Swintich had moved the police were told that Ragakwicz called on his former boarder Tuesday night. There was a quarrel and several of the lis- teners heard Ragakwicz shout:

"If you don't keep away I'll kill you!" But that, it appeared, was patched up, for toward midnight Ragakwicz invited the other to "go out and have a drink." And that was the last seen of Swintich. Ragakwicz, it was learned later, bought a revolver last week of the same pattern as that found near the murdered man's body.

The Wife Tells It All. At the station, Ragakwicz refused to talk, so detectives went out to Burnham to see his wife.

VANDERLIP FOR ARMY TRAINING

Tells Bankers' Convention at Kansas City Prepared- ness Insures Peace.

ELECTIONS ON TODAY.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 28.—Universal military training for America and greater participation in national, state, and municipal politics were urged here today by speakers before the American Bankers' association.

Military service for all young men was declared necessary by James J. Lynch of San Francisco, president of the association, and Frank A. Vanderlip of New York.

Mr. Lynch stated preparedness was necessary because "We are today the most tampering prize under the blue canopy of heaven." Mr. Vanderlip de- clared it to be "the surest insurance of peace."

Warning to America. "If ever a people should pause, if ever they should look abroad and profit by the experiences of others, should comprehend their national dangers, in the light of the terrible realities that are being enacted before their eyes in other nations, it is now, and we are that people," Mr. Vanderlip said.

Mr. Vanderlip, after speaking of the profits that can be made out of the financial status of this country, de- clared: "In a word, I believe the great- est need of the day—and a need so fun- damental as to make other matters of consequence in comparison—is the need of universal military, industrial, and economic preparedness."

He asked for training in military serv- ice for all men, greater efficiency in in- dustry, and greater efficiency in in- dustry.

"I once thought you could count on universal military service as an economic waste," he said. "I feel confident, in the light of the events of the last two years, that it is not only a military necessity of superlative importance but that our national life would draw a unity which could be obtained in no other way."

Bankers Not Prospering? Despite the present prosperity, charac- terized as the greatest the country has ever known, bankers are making less profit than at any time within the last twenty years. Statements to that effect were made to the convention by Joseph Chapman of Minneapolis. Minimum rates of interest are being paid. Mr. Chapman declared, although the bank- ers themselves are being charged the maximum for the money being loaned.

"The reserve act has demonstrated that it is not working, and in the main the principles upon which it is founded are sound and will endure," he said. "Being founded largely on the experi- ence of the large banks in Europe, it will make money cheap and plentiful."

ROLLS THE BONES, CLEANS UP $250, THEN—DISGORGE!

Lure of "All Kinds of Games Upstairs" Leads to Thrill- ing Adventure.

"All kinds of games upstairs—craps, poker, or anything you want."

This was the luring siren song of a "bookout" in a doorway at 322 South Dearborn street that attracted the at- tention of Charles Finner, 2222 Washington boulevard. A man glared his eye to the people in the door when Finner knocked for admittance. The door opened and the sight that confronted Finner made him exclaim, "Hully gee, this is like old times."

Men were gambling at a half dozen ta- bles. Some were playing poker, others craps, but the craps table had the largest number of devotees.

"Rolling the Bones." Remembering his old luck at craps, Finner decided to roll the bones.

He made one pass after another until he had a pile of silver and bills in front of him that reached almost to his chin. He "faded" everybody around the board and never missed making a "come" number. When he walked out of the place his winnings were $250.

Two of the players who had been "cleaned" early in the game were seen to leave the gambling house ahead of Finner. They "stuck him up" when he reached the foot of the stairs. One of them held a revolver to his head while the other took his money. The policeman Arlie of the South Clark street station was passing and arrested one of the men. He gave the name of Salvatore. The police may be alive in the neighborhood. The other robber escaped. Capt. Ryan was given a tip that the one who got away is Will Shuler, alias Capello, known as a newsboy pugilist. A message was sent to all stations to arrest him.

The Aftermath. On hearing Finner's story Capt. Ryan, with a squad of policemen, rushed to the gambling house and raided it. Twenty-five inmates were caught in the net. All were later released on bail.

Jim Munday is said to be the keeper of the place. The police did not find him. A book on the races also was made at the place, the police say.

BOSTON OPERA COMPANY SUES RIVAL BOOKING AGENT

Demands $50,000 of Albert D. Gould, Who Is Alleged to Have Circulated Tales.

The Boston National Grand Opera company, through its attorney, E. R. Rabinoff, yesterday filed the promise of a $50,000 damage suit against Albert D. Gould, a booking agent, whose office is in the Kimball building.

Attorney Rabinoff said Gould has gone to various committees in cities in which the opera company has been booked and told them the organization is in "bad shape" and would not be able to keep engagements. The opera company, it is said, works on a guar- antee basis and a committee in each city in which it is to perform makes the guarantee.

Gould, it is alleged by Rabinoff, is attempting to obtain the bookings held by the Boston company for a rival or- ganization.

TARIFF NOVELTY FOR VOTERS TO PONDER OVER

Democrats Half Protection and Half Anti-Protection—After War Trade Peril Looms.

ARTICLE NO. 18.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—When the great war comes to an end and the American people will be confronted with the problem of maintaining and extending their foreign trade and meeting the competition of European allies and of protecting home markets and home industry from a deluge of cheaper foreign productions.

On this both major parties are agreed, and President Wilson has discussed in generalities the approaching economic crisis and the steps that should be taken to meet it advantageously.

The actual and prospective economic changes brought about by the war have been offered by the president as accounting for his marked changes of attitude on the tariff, as a result of which he now has one foot in the camp of Republican protection and the other in the camp of Democratic tariff for revenue only.

Has Reid Schism in the Party.

The extent to which the president has embraced the doctrine of protection has shocked and saddened those old line Democrats who cherish the traditions of the party which used to denounce the protective tariff as inequitable and unconstitutional. As an apostate to the creed Mr. Wilson has bred schism in his party and raised the question of how long Democracy can continue to exist half protection and half anti-protection.

The president's eleventh hour professions of conversion to belief in protection, however, are not acceptable to the Republican keepers of the ark. They are wary of the president's restoration of a protective duty to sugar, imposition of a prohibitive protective duty on dyestuffs, and creation of a tariff commission. Republican opposition to the Underwood tariff is so deep seated that the president's hasty concessions to the protective principle on the eve of the election is not likely to gain him any material Republican support.

Formerly for Competition.

When the president went before congress to propose tariff revision in 1913 he was against protection and for a "competitive" tariff.

Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not and probably cannot produce," he said, "and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world." Congress then proceeded to reduce the tariff an average of 26 per cent, a greater cut by far than advocated by the lowest of low tariff Republicans and by these Republicans and Progressives who had fought for years for a gradual scientific readjustment of duties upon the basis of recommendations by a nonpartisan expert tariff commission.

Tariff Is Merely Shifted.

Moreover, it turned out that all the evils of tariff revision by the Old Guard Republicans in the heyday of the ultra-Bourbon regime were attendant upon the process when presided over by the Democrats. The only difference was that a new crowd was in control. The sheep was in the saddle and the New England tariff barons of other days were reduced to the footguard.

The south got what it wanted in the way of protection on what it produces and in the way of free trade in what it consumes. Lucky were those northern industries which were able to escape a vestige of protection because of the recent development of the same industries in the south.

Protection for "Garnet's Goat."

Protection for the chief product of the south was spread in an intricate scheme of duties on carefully graded cotton yarns and cloths, while the woolen yarns and cloths of the north were lumped in one group with a low duty. While the northern wool was free, the half of the American goat of Texas was protected. So notorious was this discrimination in favor of the south that the American goat has been dubbed "Garnet's goat" in commemoration of the achievement in Democratic protection of Representative Garnet of Texas, a wealthy member of the ways and means committee.

The fish of the great northern fisheries was free, but southern rice, was given generous protection. Likewise protection was given the tobacco of the south, but practically removed from most of the products of northern farmers.

1914 Election Brings Change.

The enactment of the Underwood law was followed by "hard times." Business stagnation continued till the war business developed after the 1914 election, when the people registered their dissatisfaction with the situation by turning the Democrats out of power in many states and reducing the Democratic majority in the house from 145 to 25.

The election gave the Democrats pause. The president had forced the removal of protection from sugar and Louisiana was in revolt against the party, sending a Progressive member to congress. It began to be noted about the president favored the restoration of protection to sugar. Accordingly, last spring the provision free listing sugar on May 1 was repealed. The reason given was that the government could not afford to lose the $200,000,000 annual revenue from sugar pending the slump in customs income caused by the war.

Indorsement of Principle.

The repeal actually, however, was a Democratic indorsement of protection on the eve of the election, for a move to permit the free importation of sugar and to raise the needed revenue by an excise tax on the article was defeated by the Democrats themselves. Mr. Wilson had surrendered on the chief issue in his tariff fight of 1913, when he maintained that free sugar would make cheaper sugar for the consumer.

Then followed the president's change of front on the tariff commission issue. After the 1914 election he began to veer around. He had rejected the appeals of the tariff commission last year, until its representative, Howard Gross, informed him that the movement was backed by organizations representing 6,000,000 voters.

"I Have Changed My Mind."

The surrender of the president followed, and on Jan. 28, 1915, a Majority Leader Kitchin asking the presentation of a tariff commission bill and explaining: "I have changed my mind because all the circumstances of the world have changed."

After a dead end, squirming the Democrats passed the bill but without the league's provisions for a permanent commission. It is a temporary affair in the law and can be abolished by the Democrats after the election simply by withholding appropriation for its work, in the manner that they killed the Taft board.

Likewise the president eventually came out for a protective anti-dumping provision, which as enacted, however, is designed to prevent only concerted foreign efforts to flood American markets with products sold here at less than home prices. Also amid Democratic cries of rage and pain the president put through the provision for a prohibitive protective duty on dyestuffs.

the territory formerly occupied by Germany in their part of the world.

"Strange as it may seem, Japan is really most interested in the outcome of the election of the next president of the United States."

Asked in what way the Japanese expressed this interest, Mr. Gary remarked that the interviewer was posing on the forbidden ground of "politics and business." He said he preferred not to discuss the matter.

The steel magnate said he expects to speak on the economic conditions in the orient before the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute in St. Louis in October.

The steel magnate paid high praise to the electric operation of the St. Paul train over the Rocky mountains for a stretch of 200 miles.

"No smoke in the tunnels" was his observation as one of the comforts derived by travelers.

Tired After Long Trip.

Mr. Gary returned from what he calls his "long, hot, hard trip, in the best of health, but very tired."

Mr. and Mrs. Gary on their arrival in Chicago in the morning will go to the Blackstone hotel, where they will remain for two days, according to present arrangements, after which they will go to New York.

They left New York July 3, over the Canadian Pacific railroad, and sailed from Vancouver for Japan.

They passed a week in Manila and later visited Hongkong, Shanghai, Peking, a few days in Corea, and then returned to Japan. It was the annual vacation of the head of the steel corporation.

Bush of Trade on Stocks Carries

Prices to $3,000 a Share—Worth

$750 Five Years Ago.

New York, Sept. 28.—(Special.)—The boom in Standard Oil stocks on the curb and "over the counter" today carried prices so far forward that stock of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, as it is called before the dissolution, was worth more than $2,000 a share.

The highest price for the stock before the Supreme court decree was put into effect five years ago was $700.

Applying today's value of Old Standard Oil shares with the equity in subsidiary companies intact, the market worth of the company's original capital stock was close to $2,000,000,000. This makes John D. Rockefeller, head of the company, easily a billionaire.

The children died of diphtheria during the last week at the isolation hospital, where the two remaining children of the family—Stephen, 8, and Kate, 1-year old—were critically ill of the same disease. When Johnny died Mrs. Kulak appealed to the South Chicago police and since then money, provisions, and offers from undertakers have nearly swamped Capt. Max Nootbaar. Kulak, the father, is a laborer and is out of work because of an injury to his hand.

PLAYS AND ACTORS, AND THE LIKE:
PALACE AND MAJESTIC BILLS

SIR HERBERT TREE is scheduled for an Illinois theater engagement late in November, following what is expected to be a six weeks' run of the new Frank Lehman operetta, "Alone at Last." He will open as Wolsey in "King Henry VIII." Whether he will do other parts later is not yet made known. The English actor-manager has not been in Chicago since 1900-07, when he made the second of two unsuccessful American tours. He was then Bertram Tree, so far as his "billing" went. He first came to the United States in 1894-95 with an extensive repertoire: "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Hamlet," "The Red Lamp," "A Bunch of Violets," "The Ballad-Monger," "Captain Swift," and "The Enemy of Society" (or "An Enemy of the People," as it is generally named in this country) come to memory as plays I then saw him do.

Tree was at his best as an actor, I thought then, as Dr. Stockmann in "The Green Room," and although I have seen him many times since in many other parts, my notion is the same. Next best is his King Richard II.—a part which E. B. Benson acted three years ago in Chicago, and which Robert Mantell is announced to do this season. When, in 1905, Tree came back he started his tour with a play made from Gilbert Peppery's "The Sons of the Night," which he soon abandoned, and for the remainder of the visit used a repertoire which included "The Dancing Girl," in which E. H. Sothern acted a long time ago; "A Bunch of Violets," and "Fribby." Tree's strength was so infinitely superior to William Lackaye's that I am certain the latter would say so were Tree other than an English knight. Tree, last season in New York, acted Shylock and Falstaff besides Henry.

The week's program in the Palace: D'Ancore and Douglas—Gymnasts who are too good to be at the beginning of the bill.

The Merykes—Japanese singing, dancing, and acrobatic.

Savoy and Brennan—Mr. Hammond, not long ago, called them "false and psychopathic," and there isn't any more language.

Ralph Deane's White Hussars—Pacifists, I should say. The audience went mad over them.

Bentley and Low—His transatlantic tour was a way for them, and the phantom husband skit in which Miss Louise Dresser and Barney Barnard were so funny in one of the Gertrude Hoffman pieces.

Miss Collette—A staple: he would be if he were not wanted.

Ivan Bakoff and Lela Gittle—They remain the best of the dancing teams in the variety, although they have overdone their exhibition with junk, music and humor.

Princesses—They look, in competition, like the larger Courtyard, and make noise like both. (See above, footnote on Miss Collette.)

The International Girl—A man throws colored lights on her, and she stands for it.

Notes on the current bill in the Majestic:

Milton and the Sisters de Long—They did small town theatricals, and then prove themselves ingrate by playing acrobatics.

James H. Cullen—He's the answer to "Where Are the Songs of Yesterday?" He's singing most of 'em. Audience quite content.

Phyllis Neilson-Terry—This strapping young amazon from England achieves the idea of "Hamlet" without Hamlet by selecting a fragment, the mad scene, in which Hamlet not only doesn't appear but is not even mentioned. The scene has been freely edited and added into a stunt for Miss Neilson-Terry, who first plays Chorus for it by explaining to the audience why Ophelia went mad, adding an earnest expression of trust that everybody present knows why. She then proceeds to act as if she doesn't really believe that anybody in the scene even had of "Hamlet." Her husband, Tootle King, played Claudius, with a lisp. Miss Neilson-Terry, before the scene, sang two numbers—"Carnival Time," by Novalis, and "Fiddler David's" separate "Couplets de Mirelli"—with a rather hard bit of a great deal of care, and no little effectiveness. I am certain that her audience would have preferred Don't set's mad scene to Shakespeare's.

Miss Stafford and Dell Chandler—Just a touch of the blue pencil, and they might qualify for the Redpath tour.

Clara Gillwater in "The Frame-Up"—Looks like a triangle stuff until it is disclosed that the other man is in a well meant plot to make a neglected husband jealous. The actors who play it do better by the actor who wrote it than he did by them. Miss Julia Harris is of the cast.

Willie Selzer—Explains that he did his act in Paris shortly before he broke out; but I still think that the murder of the Austrian archduke had something to do with it. Willie was a riot in the variety stage argot, with the Wednesday audience.

The Minstrel Review—A good program short.

Mack Swain

BURLESQUE is good for the soul—for isn't laughter?—and when the Keystone turn their little funnies to it the result is usually very lively. "Pamphlet Ambrose," with Mack Swain, camping around in the most approved Theodore Roosevelt fashion, is distinctly clever. "Those hypnotic eyes are the stressed features, and all the ladies struggle for the doughty Ambrose's favors. It is a play on current campings, with the players reversed, is comprehensive burlesque, which is touched off with the Keystone abandon.

cleverly satirical, for the theme of sweetness in the midst of selfish scheming is a worthy one but which in point of fact was handled in the manner of the burlesque novel of a bygone decade. Puffy, burlesqued fiction this, no more like life than an ice cream sundae.

The city of it is that here was a worth while theme, the fall of an ambition built upon false pretenses and a fair mind triumphing over a fast face, settings imposing and in good taste, beautiful exterior pictures, lovely photographs, all of the possibilities of the marvelous photographic art drawn on for the depiction of pure piffle. It is too good to see so much beauty of technique wasted in such a worthless version of a good idea.

Said the third lady behind me: "I never had so much fun at a picture. What about the effect of serious producers are aiming to make on the intelligent observers!"

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND

by Marion Harland

In Search of a Song.
"I respond to Alice N., who asks me to make the author of 'No Gentleman' a copy. It was written by Henry A. Summer. I am in search of a song entitled 'Under the Panama.' I may be some reader has a copy. It was sung about eighteen or twenty years ago. God bless the Corner and its noble work!"
KATHERINE R.
A copy of 'No Gentleman' was secured by another willing member for Alice N. before we had your kind note. We pass along your desire to get the selection. 'Under the Panama,' and will forward it to you when it comes to hand.

Patterns in Tatting.
"Will you kindly help me to get some different patterns in tatting? I should love to receive some little designs for handkerchiefs, dresses, and oh, so many other things! I surely would be grateful to you and the Corner!"
L. E. B.
The rage for tatting has been revived and keeps pace with that for crocheting. They are kindred crafts. Patterns which have been used by the present owners will fill the measure of L. E. B.'s wishes. She is ready to take all that may be donated or lent.

To Make a Boy a Wagon.
"I should like much to get old baby buggy wheels to make a wagon for my boy. Do you think a Corriette might have had unused carriage wheels would let me have?"

Real Love Stories

Twelve Years After.

A T the time I was 18 years old the boys with whom I had played and grown up with went away to school. It was my custom to send boxes of sweets and letters to one of these friends because I had admired his ability to throw stones through windows so well and to terrorize the neighborhood in general. Tim was generous, and the boxes were passed to other men in the house where he lived.

One day I received a postscript to one of Tim's letters from Jed, a classmate of his, asking me to send him a box, saying, "I love you, not Tim."

Time passed by and the incident was forgotten. Some years later circumstances brought me to the city to live, and I still remembered the small town where Jed lived, because he had sent me a bunch of violets when I had been sick with scarlet fever.

The spirit of romance, still strong within me, plus my curiosity, got the best of me, and I wrote a small blue note to his home address, telling him I was his girl.

A Smile Will Do.
"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 14. I was visiting some relations one afternoon. They had company. I was introduced to a man. Should I have risen when the man did, or should I have remained seated? What should I say when I am introduced to another person? It isn't necessary for a woman to rise when being introduced to a man, but if to an older woman, she should. It is customary when being introduced to make some remark to this effect: 'I am glad to have met you,' but a smile is sometimes sufficient."

Where to Wear Rings.
"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a girl for a while, and now I am wearing one of her rings. I would like to know on what finger and hand to wear it, also which finger must the engagement ring be worn, and what finger must one year his own ring? X. Y. Z."

If you were my beau you wouldn't be wearing one of my rings, but as long as your best girl doesn't care how she passes around her jewelry it seems to be the proper thing among boys that they should wear said bit upon the little finger of either hand. The engagement ring should be worn upon the third finger of the left hand. Your own good taste decides where you should wear any other ring.

My little cousin, Elsie, is fond of listening to older people talk, and being a bright little girl, she grasps big words and seems to understand them. One evening, just after she had started her first grade in school, she asked her father to help her with her lesson. As he was busy reading he told her that as soon as he finished he would. She waited a moment or so and then said: "Daddy, don't you think my lesson is more easy—easy than that paper?" P. J. C.

was a full-grown old maid, almost 30, on my way abroad to study. I asked him to come and see me. If he were in the city during the year, at 10 Round Square, I passed my week ends at a hospitable country home, or else visited churches or art galleries. Never thinking I would be called to show my hand so soon, I packed my bag to depart as usual. When I returned on Monday morning to my lodging I found that a gentleman had called—my unseen friend.

A note followed this, asking when I would be at home. I answered, agreeing to meet him at one of the short stone pillars in front of the public library. I went to church that Sunday to ask forgiveness for breaking the rules of conventionalism to such a degree.

As I came down the steps, dreaming, with a far away look in my eyes, my spirit caught on my rubber heels and I slipped. Calling two black boys to appear on my white skirt. In all the people I passed by. I went straight to my fate and found him at the appointed place. It took courage to break the news to my family just where I had met the fairy prince. R. F. P.

Charles was playing around on the floor of the room where his mother was sitting a new dress. On being asked by his mother how he liked her new dress, he said: "Mother, I don't want to insult your feelings, but I don't like it."

STOP QUIBBLING ON LINK PROJECT, FAHERTY'S PLEA

Business Men Urged "to Display Common Sense" on Technical Points.

Thousands of dollars of needless expense will be incurred by the city and property owners of Chicago unless business men concerned in the boulevard link project "display their common sense."

This is the substance of an appeal yesterday by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, for an abandonment of legal maneuvering and a decision on the boulevard link project. The first branch of the case consists of trial on legal objections designed to delay the improvement completely. None affects awards for property taken or has anything to do with reductions in the assessment.

Sees Months of Delay. "From present indications, this hearing on legal objections is going to consume several months. Each attorney is urging the same technical objections in an apparent effort to postpone the trial of the second branch of the case as long as possible."

The direct expense to the city, in such case, will exceed $250,000. Much greater than this will be the real estate loss to property owners.

The long contest will delay completion of the work and injure rental and selling values of property. I know this from my experience in the Twelfth street case. After months legal objections in that case were overruled, but property owners were delayed and kept in uncertainty, which in turn delayed the possibility of improving, leasing, or selling their property.

Wants All Cases Merged. "When the same objections are urged on each piece of property I can see no reason why all technical points cannot be embodied in one appeal to the Supreme court, and while that body is deciding the appeal we could proceed with the second branch of the case and get down to the real issue—the value of property condemned and the equity of assessment levied.

"There is absolutely no question about the serious congestion in North Michigan avenue, Pine street, and Lincoln parkway, from Chicago avenue to Randolph street. It takes an automobile thirty minutes longer to traverse that distance than it should.

Rush Street Congestion. "Naturally drivers choose the best routes available, and the unavoidable congestion at the Rush street bridge is the consequence."

The widening of Michigan avenue is the largest engineering project ever attempted in Chicago and the largest improvement ever undertaken by special assessment. This is a splendid opportunity for the business men to exercise their influence and display common sense in cooperating with the accomplishment of a great work for the public good. It is no time to permit technicalities to delay or defeat this improvement, which means so much to Chicago."

NO CLEW TO MEN WHO HELD UP CHICAGO TRAIN.

Registered Mail Pouch Found Near Tracks West of Detroit, Slight Open and Empty.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—The robbers who held up the New York-Chicago express on the Michigan central railroad on miles west of here last night, were still at large late today. Government detectives and Detroit officers, at the head of forces that have been searching for the bandits, said no clews had been obtained.

One of the two registered mail pouches which were taken from the mail car was found today about 100 yards from where the robbers stopped the train. The pouch was slit and was empty. It is believed that at least five men figured in the robbery.

More than a dozen robberies of importance and several murders have been committed by bandits in Michigan during the last three months. Most of these crimes were perpetrated in and about Detroit. None of the criminals has been captured.

URGES WATCH IN CHICAGO.

Acting Chief of Detectives James Mooney received a telegram yesterday from Chief of Police Marquardt of Detroit, Mich., requesting that all incoming trains be closely watched for the robbers who held up the New York-Chicago express of the Michigan central railroad on Wednesday near Detroit.

Dr. John Dill Robertson last night delivered the first of a series of twelve lectures to 400 of the 700 patients at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanatorium. The lecture dealt with the elementary rules of health.

DIVORCE SUIT DOESN'T KILL HIS CHIVALRY

James Haddie Permits Wife, Who Is Ill, to Have Little Eleanor.

Chivalry, which is considered a rare ingredient in a divorce case, was prominent in the mind of James Haddie yesterday when he gave to his sick and grieving wife who is suing him the custody of their daughter, who has been the center in a two day sensation.

"My wife is very ill," said Haddie. "I could not find it in my heart to harass her. I cannot blame her for loving little Eleanor for I love her myself. Though we are estranged and there is a suit for divorce, I feel that the child will restore Mrs. Haddie to health and happiness. The matter of her custody can wait."

Battle in Station.

Haddie was found on Wednesday in South Chicago, where he had driven in a taxicab with Eleanor, the 4 year old cause of it all. It was raining and the girl was without a hat or coat. They were taken to the police station and there a legal battle started for the possession of the girl.

It was charged that Dr. Leonard Wolf, a relative of Mrs. Haddie, had attempted to kidnap Eleanor. It was cross-charged that Haddie had attempted kidnapping after committing larceny by bailor of Dr. Wolf's $100, tendered in settlement of claims for the girl's custody.

Confer in Chambers.

Yesterday the contestants appeared before Judge Kersten on a writ of habeas corpus applied for by Dr. Wolf through his attorney, John E. Owens. There was a conference in chambers, and it was announced that Haddie would relinquish claim upon the daughter.

"My father and mother have both telegraphed me asking that I permit Eleanor to return to her mother," said Haddie. "Also I have advice from Newark, N. J., that Mrs. Haddie is ill. I could do no less than send the girl to her mother, where she will be a cheer and a comfort. It was on my own motion and I did it for the best. No one can blame me for fighting for my own daughter."
